[By Associated Press.]
London, Nov. 1.—The British troops captured the offensive south of Valenciennes this morning. Field Marshal Haig, in his report today says good progress is being made.

Bill To Headquarters
Copenhagen.—Emperor William left Berlin for German grand headquarters today, reads.

With the American army in France, the Germans now are moving the civil population in advance of the retreat of their armies from French soil. A document captured by American soldiers contained instructions for rounding up the male population capable of bearing arms and all cattle.

FOREIGN MINISTER, REPRESENTING (?)

Count Julius Andrássy.

"Count Andrássy may be a foreign minister, but whom does he represent?" the Paris papers are asking. He is supposed to represent Austria-Hungary, and in this capacity has sent a note to the Washington government accepting Wilson's peace terms. The Paris papers point out, however, that the dismemberment of Austria-Hungary is already taking place, and that he cannot speak for the Czech-Slovaks and other races that have broken away from the dual empire.

Count Julius Andrássy.

CLOSING IN ON AUSTRIA-HUNGARY

The desire for peace at any price grows stronger in Austria-Hungary as the allies exert pressure from two sides.

(1) Italy threatens to start a major offensive here.

(2) The Serbians and French in Serbia are approaching the southern border of Austria-Hungary, driving the enemy before them. The Danube traffic has already been stopped, and an actual invasion of the dual empire may shortly be begun.

Democrats Plan to Stop the Republican Political Debates in Senate Fails

[By International News.]
Washington, Nov. 1.—A half forgotten "continuing resolution," hurriedly passed by the house yesterday, will thwart the well laid Democratic plans for shutting off Republican political debate in the senate when it is called up for action this afternoon.

The resolution is one permitting the department of agriculture to continue its activities in encouraging food production during the month of November, pending the passage of the emergency food production bill, which is now held up in a deadlocked conference.

The resolution must be passed today. If it is not, the department of agriculture will be compelled to suspend a large part of its important work. The house was in session today, waiting for the senate to pass the resolution, so that it may be signed by the speaker and immediately become law.

Democrats yesterday made a point of no quorum when the senate met, applying the gag to those Republicans who were present. The Republicans could make a point of no quorum today, blocking the passage of the continuing resolution. However, they are not likely to do so. Since the resolution is debatable—indeed the debate may be continued over several days if the Republicans so desire—the minority may seize the opportunity to say today all the things they were prevented from saying yesterday, with a few additions.

War at a Glance

TUMBLING TO PIECES.—The great coalition which for four years has carried on the greatest war in history, and often seemed to have achieved success is tumbling to pieces. Bulgaria has been driven out of the Balkans and Austria with anarchy reigning throughout the kingdom is begging for peace, and Germany is anxiously awaiting the terms of the allied nations. The fact is that the war is now a mere matter of time.

GIVES EVERYTHING.—Turkey has apparently given up everything agreed to the opening of the Dardanelles and has thrown herself upon the mercy of the allies, arrayed against her. In this phase of the war, the United States is not an active participant. The United States has not been at war with the Ottoman Empire. Entry of the Black Sea by British and French and Italian warships may be announced at any time with the final acts of the drama in the theatres of actual battle.

AUSTRIA FIGHTING.—Austrian armies fighting on Italian soil face a great military disaster, for the rush of the Allies has been cut, and the Austrians have been cut off from the Ottoman Empire. Entry of the Black Sea by British and French and Italian warships may be announced at any time with the final acts of the drama in the theatres of actual battle.

AT HOME TURMOIL.—At home, Austria seems to be a seething hot bed of anarchy. Railroads are not running, and the country is in a state of chaos. The Austrians have been cut off from the Ottoman Empire. Entry of the Black Sea by British and French and Italian warships may be announced at any time with the final acts of the drama in the theatres of actual battle.

IN FLANDERS.—East of Courtrai in Flanders, British and French forces have torn asunder the German lines and have advanced on a wide front towards the Scheldt. This movement threatens to outflank the German troops holding the canal from Bevelo to the Veebrugge running to the north westward in the southern part of the eastward. The Germans may soon be compelled to abandon their positions north of Ghent to the Dutch frontier.

FRENCH ADVANCE.—On the St. Perquais plateau north of the Aisne and northwest of Bethel, the French have again advanced, and the danger to the German lines running off to the eastward is increased. East of the Argonne forest General Pershing's American troops have advanced north of Grandpre and have established themselves in the southern part of the eastward. The Germans may soon be compelled to abandon their positions north of Ghent to the Dutch frontier.

SWISS GOVERNMENT WILL RETAIN SOLDIERS

Bern, Oct. 31.—It is officially announced by the Swiss government that the number of troops with the colors is being reduced to a strict minimum. The majority of those retained, about 100,000 men, are posted along the frontiers to prevent smuggling and espionage in conformity with the agreement that no war materials be exported from Switzerland.

FORMER HUNGARIAN PREMIER HAS BEEN KILLED BY SOLDIER

[By Associated Press.]
Copenhagen, Nov. 1.—Count Tisza, the former Hungarian Premier, has been killed by a soldier, according to a Budapest telegram today. The count fell victim to a revolver shot while he was out walking.

Count Tisza, whose life is reported ended by assassination, has long been one of the storm centers of Hungarian politics. It has been charged that Count Tisza was one of the four men responsible for the war, and the assassin has been made that he instigated the assassination of Arch Duke Ferdinand.

A Magyar and Hungarian to the core, Count Tisza was pro-German, and almost constantly at the apex of the dual monarchy. He was born in 1857, the youngest son of Kálmán Tisza, a leading Hungarian statesman who gave Hungary a consolidated government. Count Tisza was twice Premier of Hungary from 1903 to 1905 and from 1906 to 1912.

Basel.—Count Tisza was promulgated by a family. When he was shot, a Budapest dispatch received here by ways of Berlin announced. A woman member of the group was wounded it is added.

COUNTY CHAIRMEN OF G. O. OPTOMISTS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—Republican county chairmen throughout the state are beginning to report to the State Central committee, the chairman of which is John D. McLaughlin, that there will be less cutting of the republican ticket than many people imagine. They say that in many counties there has been a change in the part of the democrats because of lack of candidates for county and legislative offices. It is stated that this has been a serious handicap to the democrats in the campaign, and that it has caused the campaign of the democrats in these counties to be largely conducted from county seats and has made it impossible for the personal work which has been done for the democratic state candidate.

Personal letters from voters to the republican state committee, and all state toward Governor Philipp and a general appreciation of his administration both as to civil affairs and to the war, have been received by the republican state committee.

NAVAL EXPERTS EXPECT BATTLE IN BLACK SEA

[By International News.]
Washington, Nov. 1.—Naval experts are waiting anxiously for word of a battle in the Black Sea. It was possible they said, that the Germans would attempt to put up a fight.

Meanwhile there is a belief here that the allied fleet, probably including some American units, may have passed through the Dardanelles. The Black Sea fleet taken over by the Kaiser's naval officers from Russia, and supplemented by the Goeben and Breslau which are reported to have been hauled down the Turkish crescent emblem and to have hoisted the German battle flag, is in the Black Sea. It is to be destroyed if it does not surrender.

AIRCRAFT FAILURES DESCRIBED

MISTAKES, FAILURES, WASTAGE AND DELAYS OF AEROPLANE PRODUCTION TOLD IN DETAIL BY CHARLES E. HUGHES.

U. S. GETS BIG PROFIT

General Gregory, in Discussing Situation, States That Sixty Per Cent of Profits Revert to Federal Government.

[By Associated Press.]
Washington, Nov. 1.—The mistakes, failures, delays and wastages of the aeroplane production program under the administration of the old aircraft board before the re-organization of last May, are detailed at length in the report of the investigation conducted by Charles E. Hughes and Attorney General Gregory, which was placed before the country today after having been made public at the White House.

Big Profits.
Profits in some instances, Mr. Hughes reports, were enormous, although Attorney General Gregory points out that sixty per cent of these profits revert to the government in the form of war taxes, and expresses the belief that "no such profits were allowed as to justify a charge of bad faith."

WILL SELL THOUSANDS OF ACRES OF CIVIL LANDS

[By Associated Press.]
Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 1.—In the sale of approximately 445,000 acres of civil lands owned by the Choctaw Indians, which is set for December, authorities on Indian history see the final winding up of government supervision over the thirty-three separate tribes of the five civilized tribes.

Practically all legislation required to this end has been enacted and the problems attendant upon the supervision of the five civilized tribes have largely resolved themselves to a matter of administrative detail. The affairs of the Cherokee Indians have been completely wound up. Their lands have been allotted and their money have been paid out, per capita. The Creek nation is at the present time paying out $2,000,000 as a final settlement money and all its lands have been allotted. The last remnants of surplus lands belonging to Choctaws and Chickasaws and the surface of the segregated lands have been allotted.

The five civilized tribes now have undisputed material superiority over the thirty-three tribes left in the state. Before settlement the civilized tribes owned 15,600,000 acres of land, of which were enrolled as members of these tribes 101,519 Indians, including all degrees of blood. Of this number 75,469 were enrolled as Indians by blood and 26,050 as restricted Indians being one-half or more of Indian blood.

[By International News.]
Washington, Nov. 1.—When Jean La Foret, American vice consul to Algeria, heard that the marines were being sent to the fighting line in Europe, he hurriedly left his home in France and his fighting blood, for Jean La Foret had been a marine "back in the old days." He tried to re-enlist in France, but was refused, and he came to Washington, D. C. for special permission at headquarters.

Quartermaster-Sergeant La Foret, L. La Foret, now a French instructor in a Quantico and a marine, is now in the corps under Major Tournay at Mare Island, Cal. Before joining the marines La Foret met General Shafter, who was in the Philippines, and saw his first service in the Philippines in 1898, and in 1894 enlisted in the army and fought the Apaches, having charge of an Indian reservation for three years. He was then transferred to the marine corps in 1907, and spent his time in the corps under Major Tournay at Mare Island, Cal. NEW ORDERS ISSUED FOR CAMP DIX MEN

[By Associated Press.]
Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1.—Distinction between willful violators of orders and unintentional minor breaches will be made by authorities at Camp Dix hereafter in fixing punishment for delinquent flying cadets.

Camp Dix is the chief aviation concentration camp for cadets who come to it from all ground schools and many flying camps and remain at the camp until assigned to other schools for advanced training.

A new general order says: "In the future unintentional breaches will be punished by demerits and confinement which, while termed punishment, are not intended to be punitive, but are intended to be corrective. A demerit may be more forcibly reminded of his negligence and be caused to take precautions to avoid repetitions."

The following offenses will be dealt with by a board of officers of courts-martial: (A) Willful disobedience of orders; (B) Dishonesty; (C) Gambling; (D) Use of intoxicating liquors. Demerits will be awarded according to the following schedule: One demerit: Inattention in ranks; talking in ranks; improper police or arrangement of quarters; unsuitably dressed. Two demerits: Improper spirit in work; unintentional lateness at formation; thoughtlessness in the performance of duties; slackness in military drill. Three demerits: Unmilitary conduct; unintentional absence from formation.

Three demerits in a week will deprive a cadet of Saturday leave. Five demerits of Saturday and Sunday leave, and excess of five demerits will continue a cadet in camp from noon Saturday until noon the following Saturday. If the demerits are earned in proportion to the cadet's period of assignment in camp he will be brought before a board of officers.

[By Associated Press.]
Madison, Nov. 1.—Reverend Herman D. Jenkins, seventy-six, father of Rev. Paul B. Jenkins, Emanuel Presbyterian church of Milwaukee, died here yesterday. Around the State

Clergyman Stubborn
Marquette.—Rev. Gustaf Ahlf, pastor of the Polish Baptist church of Plover, Wis., has refused before the Liberty Bond investigating committee to explain why he did not take his allotment of Liberty Bonds. When he refused to abide by the decision of the committee that he must take his allotment, he was placed in the county jail. After a few hours there he agreed to subscribe for $300 worth of Liberty Bonds. He is a native of Sweden and has been in the United States for many years. He had never said one word for America or any patriotic drive in his church and said also that he was a Russian citizen and was not a citizen of the United States. The Sheriff, Mr. Hallen, who was sent after him, had quite a tussle with the clergyman and was badly scratched in the mix-up.

Severely Wounded
Marquette.—Cergeant Ben Clough of Co. 1, 12th regiment, Thirty Second division, the old Marquette company, has been reported severely wounded a second time. In the battle of the Marne in August he received a bullet wound in the back but returned to the front late in September. On Oct. 5 he received a bullet wound in the knee and is again in the hospital. After his first wound he was promoted to sergeant.

Milk Will Advance

The soldiers were Private Joseph Gillis, 28, was killed in action September 30 in his third drive as a member of the 69th Infantry. Private William Burdett died October first from pneumonia.

Sentenced to Prison
Milwaukee.—"We want to warn men like you who have served penal sentences in other communities, that you are not to come to Milwaukee and expect any leniency from our courts," said Judge A. C. Backus, Thursday, after he had passed a sentence of ten years at Waupun to Henry Zolner, confessed perpetrator of some eighteen parsonage, church and convent burglaries in Milwaukee during the past two months.

Green Bay.—Milk and cream is to be advanced on Friday by Green Bay distributors, it was announced. The milk will be increased from 11 to 12 cents a quart, the cream from 48 to 52 cents a quart. The reason given for the increase in prices are that there has been a heavy demand for milk from outside territory, also that all dairy products are commanding higher figures.

GALLIPOLI AVENGED.

London, Nov. 1.—"Gallipoli is avenged," says the Daily Mail today in commenting upon the unconditional surrender of Turkey. "Germany is isolated and utterly alone, but her armies have not yet been broken. Germany's exhaustion is obvious."

"Germany has indeed lost the war," says the Daily Express. "She will not tarry long before making peace now that she has been weakened by the dropping out of the tyrannical Turk. The surrender of Austria lays Bavaria open to invasion. Germany is isolated and utterly alone, but her armies have not yet been broken. Germany's exhaustion is obvious."

The Post declares that Germany has not sufficient troops to defend her frontiers. The position in which Germany has now sunk is desperate and irretrievable.

Punish Austrians.

QUARANTINE WILL BE LIFTED MONDAY

DOCTOR S. B. BUCKMASTER, LOCAL HEALTH OFFICER ISSUES ORDER LIFTING BAN ON CHURCHES, THEATRES AND DANCE HALLS.

SCHOOLS WILL OPEN

Public Schools in Janesville Will Re-open Monday After Extended Vacation. Order Not Effective Until Monday.

Doctor S. B. Buckmaster, local Health Officer issued an order this afternoon lifting the ban on dance halls, theatres, churches and schools. The ban will be lifted in accordance with instruction received by Doctor Buckmaster from State Health Officer C. S. Harper.

The responsibility of lifting the ban was placed upon Doctor Buckmaster by the state health department. Doctor Buckmaster discussed the situation with the Chamber of Commerce this morning, who have been making a report of the situation and it was the consensus of both that the disease has decreased enough to warrant the opening of the amusement places, schools and churches. The order Doctor Buckmaster lays particular stress on the fact that regardless of the lifting of the quarantine.

FIRST TO PUBLISH ORDER

Due to the work of the Chamber of Commerce, acting for Dr. Buckmaster and co-operating with the Gazette, the first to publish the order of the health officer, lifting the ban on the theatres, dance halls and churches in Janesville and other surrounding cities was published in the GAZETTE fully twenty-four hours before any other Wisconsin paper had the story.

anting that the danger has not passed and urges the citizens to guard against the spread of the disease.

Theatre managers are authorized to exclude from their houses any person who has a bad cough or is continually sneezing. People are aware that they have a bad cold or symptoms of influenza are requested to remain away from the theatres and dance halls for several weeks.

The order follows: That the ban on the closing of churches, schools, theatres, library, dance halls, and other places of public assembly which has been in force because of the influenza epidemic be lifted effective Monday, November 4th, 1918.

The rising of the ban does not mean that the danger has passed. It means, however, that there has been a marked cessation in the spread of the disease. Carelessness on the part of the municipality may easily produce a recurrence. The holding of non-essential public meetings should be postponed for several weeks. Persons recently afflicted with influenza may possibly be carriers and should not frequent public places for a number of weeks.

Cases of influenza must continue to be reported and the utmost vigilance exercised at all times upon repressive measures in order to prevent recurrence of this dreaded malady.

Theatrical managers are hereby authorized to prohibit the attendance at the theatres of individuals afflicted with a bad cold, cough or frequent sneezing. It is deemed advisable that there be periods of intermission during the course of a few minutes during which time the building can be well ventilated between shows.

It is hoped that the clergy will continue to cooperate with the health department and admonish their parishioners not to attend church or Sunday school when afflicted with a severe cold or influenza. This also applies to the school board to the extent that teachers and pupils who are suffering from a cold, coughing and sneezing considerably, should be prevented from attending school.

I am directed by the State Health Officer, C. A. Harper, to:

1. To raise the ban entirely.
 2. To raise the ban in part.
 3. Not to raise the ban at all until conditions warrant such action.
 4. Under no conditions must the ban be raised to take effect before Monday, November 4, 1918.

This order is authorized by the State Health Officer, S. B. BUCKMASTER, Health Officer.

CORPORAL SADLER WOUNDED IN ACTION

Friends of Clifford T. Sadler have heard from him again. He has been wounded for the third time. He was gassed on July 13, and on August 15, was shot in the leg. He was confined in a hospital until the recovery of his leg, when he was discharged and returned to his company on October 5, when he again went into battle, and was seriously wounded by a machine gun bullet which penetrated the back of his head and came out through his mouth. He was speechless for some time, and they thought he was going to die, but he is now slowly recovering in a base hospital in France. Corporal Clifford Sadler is a member of company D, 127th Infantry, and went overseas on the same ship as company M.

WISCONSIN MAN IN COMMAND OF TROOPS

It is interesting to know that a Wisconsin Major General, Charles G. Treat, formerly of Monroe, is in command of the American Division that is fighting the Austrians in the Italian front. His division is composed of Ohio and Pennsylvania troops and has been reported in the fighting as doing valiant work. General Treat was appointed to West Point from the old first congressional district, when Green county was a part of it, many years ago. He has risen through all the grades in the regular army and is presently appointed a Major General and sent to Italy in command of the American division sent to aid the Italians in their fight.

greeted by goblins, fairies, witches, black cats, who are on hand for their yearly carnival. Games were played and refreshments served.

After spending a most happy evening the guests departed at a late hour.

A pleasant little party was given last evening at a neighborhood club of eight girls at the home of Geo. Kimball on Third street. Miss Alice Kimball was the hostess and assisted by her mother, Mrs. Geo. Kimball. They received their guests in the basement parlor which was appropriately decorated for the occasion with pumpkins and corn stalks. The billiard table was adorned with a witches cauldron, and with place cards of black cats, and other symbolic figures.

The hostesses were clad in black gowns, and many kinds of hallowe'en games and a bountiful supper made a most joyous occasion, for the sixteen young ladies who made up the company.

A number of friends of Miss Frances Spencer, 405 Fourth Ave., pleasantly surprised her last evening. The affair was in honor of her birthday. Covers were laid for twelve. Hallowe'en games were played and the guests departed at a late hour and all reported a very enjoyable time.

DAILY PRAYER

"Thou, O Lord, art working out vast designs for the two worlds of time and eternity; and we can only walk humbly in the way that thou hast marked out for us. Lead us to love Thy kingdom on earth, for which our soldiers fight, and for which Thou dost shed Thy blood in heaven, which is the expectation of reward. Amid our griefs to discern the spiritual values of this war; so do Thou quicken our passion for the world to come, by Thy own banners, which are born of the very nature of God. Amen."

JUDGE RANDALL

Within the past few days matters politically have taken such a turn that it is most essential that every republican in the first congressional district rally to the support of the regularly nominated republican aspirant for congress, Judge Randall of Kenosha. Will H. Hays, the chairman of the Republican National Committee, wires urging the election of Judge Randall as the regular republican nominee, and explaining the necessity of Wisconsin sending down a solid republican congressional delegation to Washington. While both Judge Randall, and his independent republican opponent, Henry Allen Cooper, are republicans, a division of the vote of republicans might permit the election of Calvin Stewart, the democratic nominee, which would be most disastrous at the present time.

President Wilson has seen fit to step down from his attitude of "Keep politics out of the war," and demand that the voters of this nation send back to Washington democratic congressmen, or, as Judge Taft says "Rubber Stamps," that his policies may be continued and carried out without the interference of any political opponents. In view of President Wilson's attitude in repudiating the work of the republican members of congress, of the loyal republicans the nation over, and showing a marked preference for democrats whom he can handle, the republican party is compelled to bring politics to the fore again and urge the election of a republican congress.

Every republican in Rock county and in this district in this fight on Tuesday next by casting their ballot for Judge Randall, the regular republican nominee and endorsed by the chairman of the National Republican Committee. The fight between Mr. Cooper and his opponent has developed into a personal contest and has before stated, there is danger of its degenerating into a contest of our voters. To avoid this vote for Randall.

"UNCONDITIONAL"

Turkey has laid down its arms, has opened the Dardanelles to foreign shipping, has practically made an unconditional surrender. In this the United States has had no part for at no time have we been at war with Turkey.

"Black Man of the East" has suddenly discovered his German physician has been giving him the wrong sort of medicine and that instead of gaining control of Egypt he was liable to actually lose his own crown, and worst of all, his lost Palestine, that he would be driven out of Constantinople, the city created by Constantine the Great, the Roman, that the great mosque where for centuries the doctrines of Mahomet have been preached, would once again become Christian places of worship, no wonder he surrendered. He will not save his ill-gotten gains and his subservient policy to the "Me and Gott" of Berlin leader is bound to be taken into consideration.

For Austria goes first, Turkey second, and now Austria driven to the wall, divided into a multiple of kingdoms or semi-republics, Hungary torn to its roots, the people starving, their army defeated and retreating before the victorious allies, seeks an armistice.

With two hundred thousand of their best troops cut off and practically prisoners, important strategic territory lost, Serbia almost absolutely deserted, Montenegro and Albania sent for the allies, and Rumania ready to accept the war, no wonder Austria seeks for an armistice.

This war is bound to be a great leveler of crowns and breaking up of the old lines of the European dynasties. The House of Hapsburg and the House of Hohenzollern are bound to crumble before the final peace treaty is signed, and if one can judge the temper of General Foch in lining up his peace treaty by his fighting ability there will be nothing left of Germany for a century to come that will be even dangerous for a Janesville policeman to tackle on a dark night.

Peace may come tonight, that is, a cessation of fighting may be agreed upon, but the war will not be over. The United States is now the policeman of the world and will be for the next ten years. The English, the French, the Belgian, the Italian soldiers will be sent back home to re-habilitate their countries. The United States soldiers will be held for duty guard duty if you please, until European conditions warrant the withdrawal of these men of the western seas from the scene of their activities.

Kuok will need much attention and careful handling to bring order out of the chaos that exists. Japan can not be trusted to this work, and the United States, that entered this war purely and simply for the cause of democracy, must take upon its shoulders the work of reforming this nation into a semblance of its former greatness. When the history of this war is written out in detail the part the United States has played will be one of the wonderful features to hand down in the history of the world. Entering the war for the sole purpose of rescuing suffering humanity from the toll of the "Huns," to make this world safe for mankind for all time to come, not seeking conquest of additional territory, but throwing the great power of a nation of a hundred odd millions before the President and congress, not only in money, but in man power, this nation stands as an example for generation to follow.

War conditions will exist here in Janesville for several years to come, even if a protocol is signed and fighting ceases. It will take much longer to transform the civilian army, whom the Kaiser laughed at, from fighting men into every-day citizens, and never again will this nation be culpable of being found in the state of unpreparedness that we were at the opening of the present struggle.

President Wilson asks that a congress of democrats be returned to support his war measures for the moral effect it will have upon Europe. The truth is that the great majority of congressmen and United States senators who have supported all of Wilson's war measures have been republicans and had they opposed them the democratic members who voted against all would have been able to defeat them. The only problem before the Wisconsin voters next Tuesday is to vote the straight republican ticket for every republican nominee and repudiate this dictatorship of the democratic president.

LESSONS OF THE INFLUENZA.

It is now generally realized that the epidemic of Spanish influenza is one of the most serious calamities that ever befall this country. We had been boasting how our soldiers were not going to suffer from disease as in earlier wars. We had learned better how to care for them. But it is now seen we did not know it all. Also if the country gets through this epidemic without 100,000 deaths, it will escape better than now seems likely.

Some medical authorities think this fatal result could not have been helped, since the beginnings of the disease can not be distinguished from a common cold.

However, a great many people have been very careless. "Chickens" is told of one lady who was out on her porch one day talking with her neighbors. "Don't come near me," she said. "or I will give you this awful cold I've got. But I'm going out for a nice long ride this afternoon that will break it up. She did go out on the ride, but after she got home she had a severe chill, and in a few days she was dead.

The management of one large factory in a town where the disease has prevailed, showed how it can be handled. The owners were no doubt moved both by generosity to their help, and by the feeling that it was poor business to let the disease get a start. They provided doctors and nurses, and when one of their employees got the influenza, they sent him right home, and had a doctor and nurse call. The same thing was done when members of the families of the help were taken sick. As a result, not one death was reported in all the two thousand families connected with that mill. If that policy could be followed everywhere, the influenza would not be very fatal.

Of course the shortage of doctors and nurses has aggravated the situation. After our medical forces get back from France the danger will be less.

THE FALL CLEAN-UP.

Clean-up day has become a recognized institution in many places. But it usually comes in the spring. Then it is that people's thoughts turn to outdoor work. The renewal of vegetation and the exhilaration of the spring time revive interest in garden pursuits. It is with zest and thoroughness that the householder takes hold to clean up his grounds.

The same people are apt to lose enthusiasm when it comes to the fall. The time has passed for planning garden triumphs, and cleaning up seems like paying for a dead horse. No weedy growths are often allowed to remain, and the remains of flowers and vegetables disfigure the ground.

Many people think that if rubbish is kept in their back yards it does no harm. They will clean their front yards scrupulously, but let the back yard become an eye-sore visible on all the adjoining land.

But the maintenance of rubbish is a contagious example. If one man keeps ash heaps and tin cans and piles of decayed plants and debris litter his neighbors catch the contagious spirit. Soon the neighborhood becomes a dirty and grossy suburb, from which possible residents turn away with dislike.

So let us all get out on some of these pleasant fall days, and give our grounds another going over as thorough as they had in spring. Better still, let us keep the litter from accumulating all the summer, so that now there will be nothing to remove. But there are plenty of us who have a good day's work to do before our homes are dressed up for the inspection of the neighbors until the next garden season.

THE CHANGED COLLEGES.

A letter from a college professor reports that the only thing recognizable at the colleges this fall is the buildings. The students have or will have shortly the appearance of soldiers in their khaki. The professors find themselves side-tracked, "their cherished branches of study set aside, their time taken up with duties incidental to war work.

Some anxious people are fearful that this condition is to continue, and that our institutions of learning will be devoted to propagation of militarism. They need have no anxiety, the colleges must serve the greatest needs of the hour. If the cause of humanity demands instruction in the art of making war, they must give that instruction and all else must stand aside. But the effect of the war will be to increase the demand for the higher education rather than lessen it. We are just beginning to realize that we need more highly trained men than ever before.

It is ruled that the stores can run only normal working hours during the Christmas season. That being so, there are a large number of Janesville people who have got to start out making their Christmas purchases at some time previous to 1:00 p. m. of December 24.

Some people think it's disgraceful that influenza got such a hold in this country, but so far as heard from none of them made any suggestions last spring when we kept hearing how this disease was spreading in the trenches.

The old school slate is coming back and you can't persuade a real boy to use those sanitary sponges when nature has given him an inexhaustible supply of moisture.

The girls are urged to wear colors in war time, but they need not feel they must dig any deeper into the rouge box.

TO OUR PATRONS.

Beginning November 1, 1918, for the reasons stated in our display advertisement on page five, we shall charge the following prices for milk and cream until further notice:

Pasteurized Milk, thirteen cents a quart and seven cents a pint.
Cream, one-fourth pint, ten cents; one-half pint, eighteen cents; pint, thirty-five cents; quart, seventy cents.
Special milk (Munich and Gehlberg Guernsey herds) fifteen cents a quart; eight cents a pint.
Hereafter, on account of the scarcity of help, we will be unable to make any more deliveries after one o'clock in the afternoon each day. Please send your orders in before that time.
JANESVILLE PURE MILK CO.

To Skin Beets.

An easy way to skin a beet without bleeding it and causing it to lose color is to put it in cold water as soon as it is cooked. Then draw the hand gently down the beet and the skin will drop off without trouble.

Seems Queer.

"Seek and ye shall find" is a great truth (says the Philosopher of Folly) but it can be overdone. For instance the man who is always hunting for a job is the man who never seems to find one.

THE YANKEE WAY.
When a Yankee gets a-going never there's a way of knowing just how far he's apt to travel. Or what his deeds he's apt to do: Once his nimble feet get started. He goes right about his business. And he sees his problems through. He's not ordered by a chime clock. And he hates to punch a time clock. Though he likes a bit of leisure. He will work from sun to sun. When he starts upon a mission. He has only one ambition: That's to do a good job quickly—So he sticks until the done.

Yanks are queer and curious cusses—Seldom say Yankee curses—About how much he should carry. Of the load or what's his share; If he sees a thing worth doing. Or a fun that needs pursuing. He goes after it with a will. Like a beagle chasing hare. Even after you have told him Where to stop, you cannot hold him. Downed, he'll try to squirm life's football.

For an extra yard or two; And when one task is completed, On the bench he won't be seated. If another job confronts him. That he thinks he ought to do.

When a Yank goes into action He's all fire and perfect traction. He's been trained to think and do things.

And if need be can lead: He goes after goals man-fashion. And he has one ruling passion: Which is summed up in his constant and insistent cry for speed. Rules and regulations vex him; And the long delays perplex him; What he starts he likes to finish. Now he's out to get the Hun.

Facts About the Bloodhound.
Bloodhounds were first known as sleuthhounds owing to their ability to track the deer, wild bear or the wolf. When the wounded game broke away and was lost, these good-nosed dogs were used in trailing the quarry by the blood trail, and hence they were finally called bloodhounds.

November

What will the new month mean to you?

To many it will mean progress.

To some it will mean disappointment, and failure.

A good way to make it a good month for you is to plan carefully what you want to do and then stick carefully to your plans.

Plan to use your bank's services more than ever. That will help to make it a satisfactory month.

The Rock County Banks of Janesville

TO OUR PATRONS:

We have raised the price of milk and cream and deem it no more than fair that we should state our reasons:

First. The price of all the supplies we use in our business has increased from twenty-five per cent to fifty per cent in the past year.

Second. Labor is scarce and the wages of all our employees are at least twenty-five per cent, higher than they were a year ago.

Third. The milk producers have increased the price of milk each month, beginning with $1.80 per hundred pounds last June, to $3.68 per hundred pounds for milk to be furnished us during the month of November, 1918. The farmers state in justification of this increase in price that they are obliged to have more money for their product, owing to the high prices of feed and labor and the scarcity of pastureage.

We are therefore obliged to request you to pay the following prices for milk and cream until further notice:

Pasteurized milk, thirteen cents a quart and seven cents a pint.

Cream, one-fourth pint, ten cents; one-half pint, eighteen cents; pint, thirty-five cents; quart, seventy cents.

Special milk (Munn and Uehling Guernsey herds) fifteen cents a quart; eight cents a pint.

Hereafter, owing to the scarcity of help, we will be unable to make any more deliveries after one o'clock in the afternoon of each day. Please get your orders in before that time.

Janesville Pure Milk Company

On sale at St. Joseph's Convent, identification cards and pocket folders for soldiers and sailors. Also numerous religious articles.

HOUSEWIVES ATTENTION!

We are again placing EGGINE

on the market and all grocers received a supply today. Remember, Eggine takes the place of eggs in cooking and baking.

One 10c package of Eggine is equal to one dozen of the best eggs for cooking or baking purposes.

Your grocer has Eggine. Try a package. Your money back if not satisfied.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

After a hurried trip from New York, Madeline Traverso, the new William Fox star, has begun work at Hollywood, Cal. Her first production is called "The Danger Zone," and is based on an original story by Marshall Bruce Dennington. The scenario was written by Dennison Clift.

Miss Traverso, whose work as star of "The Cullaux Case" won widespread commendation, is being directed in "The Danger Zone" by Frank Beal, one of the veteran directors of the profession.

"The Danger Zone" was selected from a number of manuscripts submitted for Miss Traverso's first picture. It was chosen because it is said to furnish the star with unusual opportunities to display the talents which she revealed in "The Cullaux Case."

In order that she might continue to make propaganda films under the direction of D. W. Griffith, Robert Huron has been granted a reclassification. Huron was transferred from Class 1 to Class 4D. Should he engage in pictures of character other than propaganda, the transfer will be withdrawn. However, Huron declares that when the present film is completed he will join the service.

Members of the "Chu Chin Chow" company, put out of commission in Philadelphia because of the epidemic of Spanish influenza, have found plenty of work with which to busy themselves. Charles Miller engaged them to take part in certain scenes of "Wilson of the Kaiser," now being filmed near this city.

Mrs. Jack Standing is going into vaudeville. Daisy Huerfent is her stage name, and she plans a musical comedy soon on Pantages time.

Lon Tellegen is not to appear in a play by the Hattisons—"Fred and Flanie"—thus taking a musical comedy that he would star in "The Blue Devil," which these agile collaborators had written for him; but when Tellegen insisted upon certain changes in the script, playwrights and star agreed to disagree. Hence the player continues in "Blind Youth."

Orrin Johnson, who has been conspicuous by his absence from stage and screen since his marriage and retirement a year ago, has been induced to return. Charles Fineman has him under contract. Johnson will appear as a featured member of the cast, supporting Florence Nash in "Redemption."

And win the priceless joys that last.

Texas Guinan, who has been known to theatergoers years without number, has been engaged by the World company to play an important role in "The Lone Ranger."

Miss Guinan was born in the Lone Star state, and her name was not gained by theatrical inheritance, but given to her at the altar when she was married at the little frame church on the banks of the picturesque Brazos river.

Miss Guinan was born on her father's ranch of 6,000 acres, just outside of Waco, Texas, and on an early day the cowboy on her father's ranch taught her to throw a lariat and ride an unruly broncho, just as children are shown in the east how to play "London Bridge," or "Hares and Hounds."

Her father sent her to a girls' seminary in Denver, Colorado, and here dates the turning point in her life. At an amateur performance given by the student she showed such marked talent that later McQuinn, manager of the Broadway Theatre, in Denver, who was present at the amateur show, obtained for her a professional engagement.

ment. New York saw her for several seasons in a number of successes and stardom came to her with John P. Stocum's and John Corb's production of "The Kissling Girl." The next season she was identified with the New York Winter Garden and from then on was much sought after by theatrical managers.

Her screen career reached its greatest height when Miss Guinan created the character of a female gun woman with the Triangle Corporation.

PEOPLE SHOULD BE MORE THOUGHTFUL.

Motion picture producers are complaining that crowds will not behave. They say that if they send out a company and concert man to make a scene in which unconcerned people are supposed to pass, the people, instead of being unconcerned, stop and stare at the camera and the actors in such a way as to register unmistakable curiosity and amusement and spoil the scene. Recently, to be specific, Miss Billie Burke wanted to appear in a scene at the Grand Central station, but her performance in that most public of places was not permitted to pass unnoticed—and, in the end, the producers had to build a studio set for the staging of the scene.

This is very inconsiderate of crowds. People should practice a little more thoughtfulness.

Wounded in Action.

Noenah, Lieut. Col. John B. Schneller, of this city, whose name was carried in a recent casualty list among the "severely wounded," was wounded in the battle field for two hours before the stretcher bearers arrived and transported him to a field hospital. In early letters home Col. Schneller minimized the extent of his wound, but it since has been learned that an artery in his arm was severed by a machine gun bullet and that he was near death through the loss of blood. Lieut. Col. Schneller has now left the hospital and has been assigned a less arduous duty at the front. He is a man of about forty years of age and left behind a wife and son, the latter of eight years.

A society has been organized to help the French people by restocking with poultry the farms that have been devastated by the Germans. Managerial business men have subscribed to the cause, but few of them have the courage to wear the official button of the organization. The button bears the words, "I have a chicken in France."

"Top hats are decidedly on the wane," says the London "Daily Mail." Again, we maintain the war has not been fought in vain.

ONLY HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES ADMITTED

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—The war department has just authorized all colleges which have units of the collegiate students army training corps to open their corps to new recruits at the middle of the current quarter, about Nov. 9.

To aid them in recruiting their corps to full strength, the war department has authorized them to set aside the requirement of high school graduation and to admit men, who because of partly completed high school work, business or vocational experience, or personal qualifications would be considered material for officers.

The U. S. C. unit at the University of Wisconsin is, however, so large that the university, with the sanction of the war department, has decided not to admit new students for the second term of the quarter, beginning Nov. 9, unless they are high school graduates. The university can accommodate these up to the number of 200, but will not at this time admit men who are not high school graduates.

It is likely that the university's S. A. T. C., will be opened to new recruits in larger numbers in the near future, to replace men transferred in to officers' training camps and other army branches. When such vacancies exist, announcement will be made throughout the state. Whether the requirement of high school graduation will be maintained at that time will depend upon the needs of the army and the number of high school graduates available for the special training.

MARK L. REQUA.

Mark L. Requa, director of the oil division of the fuel administration, has been in daily conference with more than five hundred independent oil operators for the past fortnight, to discuss means of avoiding a serious shortage of oil this winter.

He insists that kerosene production, especially, must be materially increased.

Requa is one of those "breezy westerners" who is more like a tornado than a breeze when it comes to getting what he wants. He was born in Virginia City, Nev., fifty-two years ago next Christmas day.

He developed the Nevada Consolidated Copper company and built the Nevada Northern railway.

TO THE GERMAN PEOPLE

The god you have worshiped has failed.
Your idols have crumbled to dust.
The leaders that loudly you hailed
Have all proven false to their trust
You were blind and they led you astray
You were weak and they trampled
The feet of your master were clay,
And base were the gems in his crown.

You have followed philosophers cold
Like children and muttered their creeds.
They taught that to take and to hold,
Is all that humanity needs.
They mocked at the tender things
And vaunted the power of the strong.

You worshiped not God, but your kings
And now you have learned that you were wrong.
The sword of your god is destroyed.
The purple is torn from his throne.
Right has broken the power he enjoyed
And helpless you are and alone.

For comfort in vain you shall turn
To the books that your sages have penned:
For the deceptions they forced you to learn
Were false from beginning to end.

You must learn from the teachers of truth
That right isn't builded on might.

You must banish the creeds of your youth

And come from the dark to the light.
If you'd share in the laughter of men
You must follow the ways that they plied.

You must start in as children again
And humble yourselves before God.

You have wasted the years of your past,
You have builded your splendors on sand.
But your creeds were not written to last.
Nor your temples erected to stand.

From the ashes of power you must rise
To teach all your children, anew,
That in honor real majesty lies,
And only that lives which is true.

THE RED MIRAGE

"What I have to say is said quickly. A volunteer corps is being formed for Tomkin. I have offered for service. If I am accepted you will accompany me."

"I refuse."

"On what grounds?"

"I simply cannot. You are absurd and melodramatic. Desire, I have given you my answer. Have you anything more to say?"

"He got up quickly."

"Nothing."

She hesitated, then glanced at Gabrielle Smith with a pretty expressive shrug of the shoulders, and passed calmly out of the room. But the little appeal had been ignored. Gabrielle was watching the man standing motionless in the lamplight. After a moment she came up to him and placed a cup on the table near him.

"Your tea, Captain Arnaud."

He started nervously.

"My tea—oh, thank you. I had forgotten. You are very good—a sort of administering and practical angel." He tried to laugh. "Does nothing ever upset you? I believe in the middle of an earthquake you would still come up to me and say in your quiet, hobgoblin sort of way, 'Your tea, Captain Arnaud,' and make me feel that earthquakes were the most trivial occurrences possible."

"They are at least more frequent than the seismographs would have us suppose," Captain Arnaud.

"What does that mean?"

He turned his heavy lightless eyes to her face. She met the interrogation quite calmly, her hands clasped in front of her with prim precision.

"I mean that I know something of what has happened," she said.

"For instance?"

"I know what happened at the Villa Benetto's."

It was very silent in the shadowy room. Arnaud had not moved. But over his white, vice-marked features there quivered the first signal of re-awakened consciousness.

"How did you know?" he asked quietly.

"I can't tell you, I guessed. Something you said made me understand that you hated Mr. Farquhar."

"You know his name?"

"I know him."

"Well?"

"I was in the dark—I am still. But I was almost sure of one thing. And it was I who warned the patrol."

"You wanted to trap me?"

"I wanted to save you both."

He turned away from her then with a trembling gesture of incredulity.

"You wanted to save me from what—from murder? Was it worth while? Don't you know what I am? Ask my wife. She can tell you—a drunkard, an opium-smoker, a dissolute—"

"A madman, Captain Arnaud."

PETEY BINK—IF SHE EVER GETS WISE, PETEY WILL WEAKEN.

"How do you know that? I have been trying to hide it from everyone. But you are right. I am mad—obsessed. They say some mad people suffer tortures from the knowledge of their madness. I am like that. I know that I am mad, and I am in hell. I can see the days that are to come—horrid misshapen horrors, crowding along the path and waiting to spring on me."

He caught hold of her by the hand, and his quiet, terrible voice dropped to a whisper. "Today was a red-faced devil—you know, like the one you saw that night. I drugged myself so that I should not wake until it had gone. But you cannot cheat the devil with opium. I went out on to the plateau. Farquhar was there. Poor Farquhar! My heart was sick for him. They had torn my bullet out of his shoulder, and he held himself like a man. I wanted to let him go, but I knew it was no good to try, so I sent him and a dozen others over the plateau at the double. You understand—it was a mile or more, and he looked as though there wasn't a drop of blood in him. He fainted—over the body of a comrade whom he had tried to help. I marvelled that he had gone so far. The sergeant ordered him up, but he did not move. He was unconscious. But that did not count; he had disobeyed orders. We are very severe with that sort of thing in the Legion. I had him strung up in the crepuscule. Do you know what that is, mademoiselle? We strap a man's wrists and ankles together behind his back and leave him like that for a day or two, out of doors, with a quarter of an hour's interval here and there to break the monotony. It used to be a very favorite punishment in the Legion. The good General Negrier abolished it, but now and again we revive it. I revived it. Richard Farquhar is out there now, on the plateau, and perhaps he will not live to see the morning. And he saved me—he saved—"

The terrible dry whisper ended suddenly. Arnaud put his hands to his head with a movement of pathetic helplessness.

"Miss Smith—I—I am afraid I have been wandering—talking nonsense. You—you don't think I am altogether mad, do you?"

"No, no—Captain Arnaud—only worn out—exhausted. Come, I want you to lie down on this sofa here, and I shall put the lights out. You must promise me to try and sleep. On your word of honor."

"My word of honor? Oh, I don't think that's worth much nowadays. But I'll do anything you ask."

"I only ask of you to sleep and forget. You asked."

He nodded, yielding to her like a sick child, his eyes following her movements with an humble gratitude. She arranged the pillows beneath his head, and he took her hand and kissed it, diffidently, apologetically.

"I hope you don't mind. I expect if you knew what I was—that I had done, you would shrink from me."

"No, Captain Arnaud, if you were the devil himself I should not shrink from you."

"I don't believe you would. You'd comfort him—you'd tell him there was hope for him yet—that he wasn't altogether bad. My wife—"

He faltered, and her grasp on his powerless hand grew firmer.

"Your wife is very young, Captain Arnaud. One day soon she will understand as I do."

"If that were true—possible—then I could sleep."

His eyes closed. A weak tremulous sigh quivered at the corners of his mouth. Noiselessly she turned out the lights and left him.

Sylvia Arnaud's room lay at the farther end of the corridor. Gabrielle knocked and immediately entered. Her manner, from that of quiet good humor, had become alert and hard. Her eyes were very bright, her mouth set in lines that for once betrayed no trace of humor.

"Your husband is very ill, Madame Arnaud," she said. "He is on the brink of a nervous breakdown—perhaps worse—and only you can save him. I came to warn you—"

"You are very kind, Miss Smith."

"This is not the time to exchange commonplaces. When he awakes you must go to him. You must tell him that you will accompany him to Tomkin. But you must act at once—before it is too late."

Sylvia Arnaud drew back, white and trembling, the first indulgent good humor turned to an incredulous anger.

"Miss Smith, are you forgetting—"

"That I am your paid companion?"

No. But it is in your or my power to make our status into that of absolute equality—this moment if you wish. Do you wish it?"

"Sylvia stared blankly at the stern white face of the woman confronting her. Her anger had burned out like straw, and she was now only frightened and a little resentful.

"I—I don't want to lose you. Miss Smith," she stammered. "I know that you do not care for me; but in your strange way you have been friendly—and I—I am very alone. I have confidence in you. I am prepared to overlook the evening's outbreak."

"That's what you cannot and shall not do," was the grim answer. "You have driven your husband to the verge of madness, Madame Arnaud, and through madness to crime—to the murder of a man who surely was dear to you."

"Whom do you mean?"

"Richard Farquhar."

"I forbid you—you are beside yourself—"

Gabrielle interrupted the indignant protest with a quiet decision tinged with irony.

"We are always beside ourselves when we tell the truth, Madame Arnaud. But fortunately I have not much more to say. Go to your husband—tell him that Richard Farquhar never was and never could be his rival in your affections—tell him whom it was you went to meet in the grove that night—"

"I cannot—what you ask is absurd."

The gray, neat little figure came closer.

"You are very lovely, Madame Arnaud," Gabrielle said very gently and almost reverently. "One understands why men suffer so much and patiently for you. A man's life is in your power. Whatever he has done he loved you. He still looks up to you as a saint in heaven. Madame Arnaud, such loyalty is rare. You dare not kill it!"

Sylvia laughed carelessly.

"That all comes too late," she said. "You cannot plead to me for pity. And justice! What justice dare you claim for an outcast—a cheat, a man whom all honest men shrink from—or for a dissolute rascal who has not shrunk from murder? They have earned their fate."

Sylvia rose instinctively to her feet, and they faced each other in the silence of unrelenting antagonism. The little gray-clad woman turned and went quietly toward the door. For the first time Sylvia's voice sounded breathless and anxious.

"What are you going to do?"

"I am going to act for you."

The door closed. Sylvia Arnaud ran to it, turning the key, set her back against it as though shutting out an unreasoned, nameless terror.

CHAPTER XIII.

Dreams.

There were dreams on the great plateau—unreal shapes which took their airy substance from the stars and from the white transience of the Arabian night. Richard Farquhar saw them distinctly. In the first hours of twilight he had believed them the pigments of his own pulsing, fever-driven brain. And he had rolled over, hiding his face against the hard soil, and had bitten his lips bloody.

The melancholy hour between life and death was over, and slowly, with all the mysterious majesty of the East, night led out her shining myriads from the darkness into the waiting solitudes. Only the sentinel of the hour stood out as something living, a tall rigid shadow magnified by the silver ghostly light of Golden Text: Every man that striveth in the games, exerciseth self-control. Now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible. 1 Corinthians IX 25.

(World's Tenancy Sunday.)

This eldest and sweetest of pastorals keeps on with ever increasing interest. Sarah dies in Hebron and the stricken patriarch mourns her sincerely. Over her body weighted with unguents he bargains for a suitable sepulcher paying the goodly sum of four hundred silver shekels. Off goes Abraham's trusted servant to find a suitable wife for the son of promise. The bride-elect comes suddenly upon Isaac while at his devotions in the field. Abraham dies and his rival sons forget their enmity while they act as pall-bearers. The very uneventfulness of Isaac's life tells of its peace and plenty.

After twenty years twin sons were born to Isaac and Rebekah. They are perfect contrasts in appearance, disposition and occupation. There was certainly some preface to the crucial scene now narrated. It was not fortuitous that Esau was pained by his rival while they acted as pall-bearers. The very uneventfulness of Isaac's life tells of its peace and plenty.

AT THE PEACE TABLE.

Who shall sit at the table, then when the terms of peace are made? The wisest men of olden times have said that the wisest man is he who can sit at the table of peace.

Yes, they shall gather in golden state to speak for each living race, But who shall speak for the unseen dead that shall come to the council place?

Though you see them not and you hear them not, they shall sit at the table too.

They shall sit at the table where the peace is made and know what it is you do.

The innocent dead from the sea shall rise to stand at the wise man's side.

Look over his shoulder a boy shall look—a boy that they crucified.

You may guard the doors of that council hall with barriers strong and stout, But the dead unbidden shall enter there, and never you'll shut them out.

And the man that died in the open boat, and the babes that suffered worse, Shall sit at the table when peace is made by the side of a martyred nurse.

You may see them not, but they'll all be there, when they speak you may fail to hear.

You may think that you're making your peace alone, but their spirits will hover near.

And whatever the terms of the peace you make with the tyrant whose NOOZIE

AMERICAN GENERAL GREET'S COMMANDER OF BELGIAN FORCES; KING PRAISES TROOPS AND DIRECTS THEM IN DRIVE ON HUNS

Upper picture shows General Gillian, indicated by arrow, leader of the Belgian forces. At his left is General Chamberlain of the American army. The other officers are members of the general staff. Lower picture shows King Albert, on horse at right, addressing Ninth infantry regiment before a recent drive.

The Germans, now in complete rout along the Belgian front, are hoping to make a stand at a new line, to be known as the Antwerp-Namur-Sedan line, but it is doubtful if they will be allowed to halt there. The allies have driven them from the Belgian coast and are continuing their advance. The Belgian forces, remembering the outrages committed in their land for four years by the Huns, are playing a big part in the advance. King Albert is personally directing the movements of his countrymen and he and the queen arrived in Ostend before the last Huns had gone.

Roman Art Lost. The ancient Romans knew not how to make transparent glass free from flaws and bubbles, but they could make the most exquisite articles of this vitreous material, blood-red, crimson-red, and of every imaginable color—veritable gem-stuff in glass, such as we know not how to imitate, successfully today.

Janesville now has only one hundred and forty-two cases of Spanish influenza and the majority of these cases are very mild. Eighteen new cases were reported by the physicians yesterday and thirty-six patients were discharged.

No official order has been received as yet by Dr. Buckmaster from the state health officer regarding the opening of the theatres on Monday, but it is expected that the order will be forthcoming within a short time.

Dr. Buckmaster, in discussing the situation this morning, stated that the people of Janesville should at this time be very careful and every precaution should be used to stop the spread of the disease. People are still urged to avoid congregating and to, above all, guard their sneezes and coughs.

A new supply of attractive literature and folders on travel in the Pacific Northwest has just been received by the Gazette Travel Bureau.

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE STILL UNSETTLED

(By Associated Press.) With the football month of November close at hand, the schedule of the Missouri Valley conference has not yet been definitely settled, and it seems probable that the teams will have to wait until after frequently interrupted training seasons, will meet in a few games on uncertain dates.

The idea of a post-season series for the benefit of the Red Cross and other war activities, as suggested by Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, now is attracting much attention. Stagg's realization has come that the S. A. T. C. regulations and the influenza epidemic have so curtailed the season originally planned as to prevent the meeting of many teams. W. O. Hamilton, manager of athletics at the University of Kansas, has endorsed the suggestion and if Coach Stagg's plan for a general conference on the subject is put through, Mr. Hamilton will journey to Chicago to cast the K. U. vote in favor of it. Under the scheme the Kansas-Arizona and Missouri-Kansas Aggie and all games cancelled for one reason or another would be reset as post season affairs and possibly made a source of large financial profit to war work organizations.

Typical incitations and vaccination rose up and snout football practice at K. U. this week just when the influenza epidemic was beginning to release men for football work. At Missouri University also there is a wait, for all the men of football experience Coach Henry F. Schulte had lined up at the opening of the school year, but one can be expected to be in school when the season opens in November. Men may not be called to their various duties by that time, but he expects many of the quintet to remain in school through the season. Schulte, therefore, faces the task of building a team entirely from green timber, men whose experience has been limited to high school contests.

MORRIS MILLER

Credit for the development of the little new star goes to Harry Stevens, former coach at the Y. M. C. A., now commissioner of recreation in the city of Cleveland, who is himself a skilled diver and has taught her all he knows. He says Miss Porter is a marvel and will be bidding for signal honors before another year.

Jim Saffel, who doubtless held the record for witnessing baseball games, died at his home in Washington, D. C., in his seventy-ninth year. Mr. Saffel was a telegrapher and he served at the baseball parks in the capital city in that capacity for forty-nine years. This season would have been his fiftieth, but he saw only one game—the second on the schedule. Mr. Saffel attended his first ball game on June 26, 1869, when the champions of Washington played the Cincinnati Red Stockings. He was an ardent fan, the kind who never lost his enthusiasm, although called to the park each day in his line of work. Mr. Saffel was the father of fourteen children, nine of whom, with Mrs. Saffel, survive him.

Kid Wolfe, clever featherweight boxer, who hails from Cleveland, O., has gone and done it—enlisted. He has joined the motor transport service.

Kid shows the proper spirit. There is also a decent good laugh in connection with Wolfe's move. Jimmie Dunn, manager of Johnny Kilbane before the featherweight king postponed his ring activities to help Uncle Sam, has a campaign of publicity well under way to match Wolfe with Artie Root for the featherweight title. Dunn had peddled the alleged news that Kilbane would not re-enter the ring. Dunn hoped to make Wolfe champion in his place.

It was a poor hunch Jimmie had—an indirect knock at Kilbane and a poke so far as the two fighters mentioned for the title bout were concerned.

Wolfe's patriotic move knocks Dunn's little money-making scheme into several kinds of cocked hats.

TOMMY MURPHY ONCE MORE EARNS TITLE OF WIZARD OF THE LIGHT HARNESS GAME

Tommy Murphy

Tommy Murphy, the Poughkeepsie reinsman, is king of them all. The closing of the 1918 Grand Circuit season finds him the biggest money winner in the circuit. He collected $106,681.46 in the fifteen weeks of racing. Pop Geers ran second.

"CAP" KNEW WHAT HE WAS DOING!

Wolfe tried to enter the regular branches of the service, but was deferred because of his eyes. He finally persuaded the enlisting officers in the transport service to take him.

The Cleveland Indians were figured as potential prospects early in the 1918 baseball campaign. But one by one their members enlisted or were called for service. There is considerable doubt as to the fate of the players of the fact that the players are doing their share in Uncle Sam's league. Eighteen members of the team are now in service. Here's the list: First Lieut. Tom Berber of the aviation corps. Now in a hospital in London, suffering from a gun-shot wound in the leg.

First Lieut. Phil Des Jardin. Candidate Officer Ed Kieffer. Candidate Officer Louis Guisto. Candidate Officer William Wambas. Candidate Officer Guy Morton. Sergt. Otis Lambell. Corp. Joe Harris. Priv. Elmer Smith. Mechanic Chester Torkelson. Priv. Allan Gould. Priv. Jess Petty. Priv. Ed Miller. Priv. Harry Lunte. Naval Aviation Cadet Tris Speaker. Naval Reserve Ray Chapman. Naval Reserve Josh Billings. Herbert, Dickerson, Guisto, Lambell, Kieffer, Harris, Torkelson, Petty and Miller are now across the pond. Des Jardin and Gould may be there. Catcher De Berry attempted to join the marines but was rejected on account of physical disability.

Some showing for one squad. In the meantime many members of the champion Red Sox team are barnstorming the country, playing exhibition games and raking in some easy coin.

Which ought to just about end these players' careers as far as fandom is concerned.

The Kaiser's booked to finish a poor last in the big league "over there" and the allies are going to force him to. Considerable criticism regarding the moves of Ty Cobb, Chris Mathewson and several other baseball stars in accepting commissions in the gas and chemical warfare division of the army have been heard.

Many fans have felt that these fans, idols of thousands of baseball fans, were accepting "bomb-proof" jobs. "What do those guys know about chemicals?" is one of the remarks heard in fanning bees.

On the face of it, without knowledge of the nature of the work Cobb and Matty and the others will do, it looks as though the criticism was deserved. But the truth of the matter is these men are prepared to give their country more valuable service in this direction than they could by shouldering a rifle or manning a gun.

Ty and his fellow stars were selected for the division for four principal reasons: Their perfect physical condition. Their ability to lead men. Their ability to think and act quickly.

Their personalities. As soon as they have learned the details of their work they will lead gas and flame squads of the front line trenches. They will direct the actual work of hurling poison gas and liquid flame at the enemy. They will be in the thickest of the fighting with their men.

They will have nothing to do with the chemicals other than to direct their use against the Hun. Chemical experts—the best in the country—will attend to the mix and handling of the chemicals. Cobb and his mates are wanted to mold their forces into units, teach them how to handle their gas masks, to conduct themselves properly under fire. Then when the divisions are actually at work the lightning thinking of these baseball wizards will be counted upon to protect the men to the greatest extent while giving the foe the maximum amount of gas.

The stars and their outfits will be doing the most dangerous work in the army. Only born leaders can hold men together under such conditions. The leaders themselves must be able to undergo hardships with their men and remain fit to the last.

The government officials believe Cobb and men of his type are fitted for this important work. This is only one of thousands of moves the government has made in the face of public criticism because nipped it in the bud and the Great Lakes team was disbanded. And John Lavan, instead of being a manager of a "world tour," has to get on the job as a mere medical officer of lieutenant grade.

Rollie Zeider, former Chicago Cub player, has added another business to the list entered by ball players. Rollie is in the reduction business. He recently turned in the lowest bid for taking care of the garbage of Auburn, Ind. He underbid two competitors. Rollie'll now get the dope on the food-wasters of that fair city.

Death has taken several noted athletes recently outside of those engaged in the war. Gayle A. Dull, long distance runner who ran in the Olympic games in 1908, died recently at his home in Franklin, Pa. of appendicitis. John Aitken, well known auto racer, died a few days ago of pneumonia.

NORTH PLYMOUTH

North Plymouth, Oct. 30.—Mrs. Fred Sarow was taken to the Mercy hospital where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

The influenza patients are all on the gain and no new cases are reported. Mrs. F. Hartwick spent the part of last week at the home of her son, Wm. Hartwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Antisdel, who have been visiting at the home of her parents, returned to their home in Minneapolis Wednesday. Mrs. Mabel Richards, has been helping care for her brother and little nephew who have been quite sick with pneumonia. Miss Powers who has been caring for the sick in the Frank Hutton home has returned to Janesville.
